“The Great NHS Heist” Sell Off II A documentary Film Project

Web site and crowd funding video released

“The Great NHS Heist” is a documentary film project with the aim of highlighting the on going stealth privatisation of our health service and the outcome it is leading to.

This film is being produced by a team including Dr Bob Gill a general practitioner campaigner, executive committee member of the NHA party and a producer on the film “Sell Off”.

The great NHS heist is looking at the continuation of the privatisation agenda covered in Sell Off and how the process has accelerated and been emboldened by further outsourcing of NHS services and attacks on staff conditions and contracts.

Speaking about the project Dr Gill said

“Our NHS is on it’s knees. The perfect storm of deliberate de-funding services. Closures of hospitals, rock bottom staff morale and now the attack on staff wages. All part of the transition to an American style private insurance system. Yet the public remain blissfully unaware of the end game, thanks to the stealthy and calculated deception of successive governments confusing and misleading the public with Orwellian double speak and political spin. “... ..”we all need to take action to help inform people of the end game of this on going corporate raid on our valuable health care system.”

A web site and social media effort for the project is now available.
